

The Perplexing Mystery of the Missing Pet

August 27, 1905

The Perplexing Mystery of the Missing Pet

"Ah, here," said Sherlock Holmes, "are a number of clues concerning your lost pet. Here is one clue which tells me that you are lamenting the loss of a cat."

"How do you know that, may I ask?" exclaimed the lady.

"Why, by this peculiar whip I see here," answered Sherlock Holmes. "Here is a clue from which I am able to gather two things— the breed of the cat, and that she was ill treated. This stick, marked in inches, tells me from where she was taken, and two other clues inform me that she was removed by the coachman, and for what reason?"

Are you a detective? Can you solve the mystery?

Detective's report on THE MYSTERY OF THE MISSING PET

1. Sherlock Holmes deduced that the lady had lost a cat from the

2. The breed of the cat and that it was ill treated is shown by the

3. That cat was taken from the

4. That the coachman removed the cat is shown by the

5. The coachman removed the cat as part of a

