"The Adventure of the Red Circle" 03 (His Last Bow)

Ms. Warren, a landlady familiar to Sherlock Holmes, comes to see Holmes because of her concerns about a mysterious lodger, a young man who has not been seen since first entering the room.

Is this someone who simply enjoys his privacy, or is there a more sinister element to his hiding?

Can coded messages in the Daily Gazette newspaper, as well as signals sent by candle from a neighboring building, lead Holmes and Watson to the truth?

(His Last Bow)

“You are uneasy, as I understand, because your new lodger remains in his rooms, and you cannot see him. Why, bless you, Mrs. Warren, if I were your lodger, you often would not see me for weeks on end.”

“The man cannot come near the woman, or he will guide their enemies to her. Since he cannot communicate with her direct, he has recourse to the agony column of a paper. So far all is clear.”

(Charlton Heston, 1980, The Crucifer of Blood)

Canonical Characters

John Watson

“The Adventure of the Red Circle” 06 (His Last Bow)

“In the morning I found my friend standing on the hearthrug with his back to the fire and a smile of complete satisfaction upon his face.”

“There was the creak of a turning key, the handle revolved, and two thin hands darted out and lifted the tray from the chair. An instant later it was hurriedly replaced, and I caught a glimpse of a dark, beautiful, horrified face.”

*“Why should you go further in it?
What have you to gain from it?”*

(Jeremy Brett, 1980, The Crucifer of Blood)

Canonical Characters

Mr. Warren

"The Adventure of the Red Circle" 07 (His Last Bow)

A timekeeper at Morton and Waylight's, in Tottenham Court Road.

On his way to work in the morning, two men threw a coat over his head and bundled him into a cab. They drove him an hour, and then opened the door and shot him out.

(Kenneth Connor, 1994, The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes,
"The Red Circle")

Canonical Characters

Mrs. Warren

“The Adventure of the Red Circle” 08 (His Last Bow)

Wife of a timekeeper who was a landlady in Grand Orme Street.

“The landlady had the pertinacity and also the cunning of her sex.”

“It frightens me, Mr. Holmes. I can't sleep for fright. To hear his quick step moving here and moving there from early morning to late at night, and yet never to catch so much as a glimpse of him—it's more than I can stand.”

(Betty Marsden, 1994, The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes,
“The Red Circle”)

Canonical Characters

Inspector Gregson

"The Adventure of the Red Circle" 09 (His Last Bow)

"Here he is, sending out messages to an accomplice—there are several of his gang in London. Then suddenly he was telling them that there was danger, he broke short off."

"She will have to come with me and see the chief. If what she says is corroborated, I do not think she or her husband has much to fear."

(Olivier Maguire, 1985, The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes,
"The Greek Interpreter")
